TO HANDLE

Nothing makes an elegant style statement in your kitchen like a designer radiator. These two chic new models from manufacturer Agadon combine sleek good looks with practicality, ideal for a more modern room. The P1, shown left, starts at just £249.99 for a polished chrome radiator, while the slimmer Gaja design, shown right, has a chrome finish and costs £349.99 for a 1.8m-tall model

Boiling over

Breville has updated its smart Hot Cup device with an easy-fill, two-litre water tank and variable dispenser, providing boiling water in small, medium or large cups at the push of a button. In stylish black and chrome, the model can be yours for just £69.99 from Argos

Achieve designer style at a fraction of the price with second-hand units from The Used Kitchen Company. With more than 100 designs to choose from, prices range from £900 to £35,000. Check out theusedkitchencompany.com for a selection of current kitchens

Crossing the line

X marks the spot with this striking tap from Caple. The crosshead handle design makes the swan-necked Astrid mixer stand out from the crowd and is perfect for a hi-gloss room. In polished chrome, it costs from £87

Fed up

with wiping mess from utensils? Then try these Elevate tools from Joseph Joseph. The range includes a spaghetti server, ladle, shown top, solid spoon, slotted spoon, slotted turner, shown bottom, and flexible turner. Each piece has a weighted handle to prevent them touching the worktop. They're £8 each

OUT OF THE RED

If you want worktops to wow at affordable prices, Bushboard has the solution. It has upgraded its Omega range of surfaces and splashbacks with four stunning Quartz metallic shades, including Cinder, Chocolate, Vanilla and Ruby, shown. From just £50 per linear m
